Sleeping Dog Productions, Inc.
Captures Two (2) 2009 Telly Awards

*Green Lake, WI – (July 14, 2009) In an announcement made by The 30th Annual Telly Awards judging panel (www.tellyawards.com), it was learned *Sleeping Dog Productions, Inc., the Green Lake, Wisconsin-based producer of High Definition television and video programs, has been awarded two bronze Telly Awards.

With nearly 11,000 entries from all 50 states and around the world, this year's 30th anniversary has been one of the most competitive and successful in the long history of the Telly Awards.

“Georgia Aviation’s First Couple”, was a winner in the History/Biography category. Produced for the Museum of Aviation Flight & Technology Center, for the Hall of Fame Induction of pilots and historians Ed & Connie Bowlin of Griffin, GA.

“CADE Museum of Innovation & Invention”, produced for the CADE Museum Foundation in the Charitable/Not-for-Profit category, this video presented the case statement and concept for creating a leading edge museum named for Gatorade inventor, Dr. Robert Cade.

“We are very proud to be honored by the Telly Council of Judges,” said Scott Guyette, Sleeping Dog partner/director/producer. “It is very gratifying for Sleeping Dog to be recognized in this manner by industry professionals. These awards highlight our abilities to help our customers interpret their message into an entertaining story about their brand, as well as our overall creative direction and leadership in online video production. We are dedicated to consistently producing work we feel is the best in the industry. This is a great honor for Sleeping Dog and our clients.” Scott adds, “Winning a Telly validates that our client’s selection of a small firm has been a good choice.”
